

Hello everyone, this is my next pondering.

At first I thought it will be a regular pondering but then I dared to look at the latest crop circles and then it turned out to become again somewhat geometry based. This time I will try to point the references out as good as I can to my last ponderings so there is no necessity to read through them all but you can follow my pointers, so you can understand my thought process a little better.

In other words this is a consecutive pondering again but more in a way of applying the knowledge gained and build up upon it.

This piece is dedicated to all the "bears" out there.

Part 1:

Before I start to dive into the crop circles I want to explain in my words what a "nexus" planet is. A member gave me and others a great picture for visualization and I will expand on it a little bit.

Nexus Planet:

First let us look at the word "nexus"

nexus (n.)

*1660s, "bond, link, interdependence between members of a series or group; means of communication," from Latin nexus "that which ties or binds together," past participle of nectere "to bind," from PIE root ned- "to bind, tie."

Now visualise your heart as the nexus planet and your arteries and veins as the "river" that connects all planets with the "nexus" planet. All rivers flow into the ocean.

The heart is a generator that generates and streams energy through your body. Now a river can be manipulated quite easily. You can put a dam into it, to control the amount of water that flows through. You can change its direction and flow or you can even lay it dry completely.

The ocean is the total opposite.

The song which is probably played the most on Thomas shows is "My name is Human" and I want to highlight a specific line in that context.

"The bigger the river, the bigger the drought"

That means the more planets that have been connected to ours; the more run dry if they don't get the energy from the "nexus" planet, the heart, to provide them with everything they need to survive.

Let us take a look now onto one of my favourite songs from the waterboys

Waterboys – This is the sea

These things you keep

You'd better throw them away

(Throw away everything that holds you back!)

You wanna turn your back

On your soulless days

(Forget the days were you didn't had a strong connection with yourself and embrace the fact that you do now!)

Once you were tethered

And now you are free

(Tethered to the AI Machinery and time Matrix. Now we are free!)

Once you were tethered

Well now you are free

That was the river

This is the sea!

Now if you're feelin' weary

If you've been alone too long

Maybe you've been suffering from

A few too many

Plans that have gone wrong

And you're trying to remember

(remember who you are and why you choose to come here at this moment in time)

How fine your life used to be

Running around banging your drum

Like it's 1973

Well that was the river

This is the sea!
Wooh!

Now you say you've got trouble
You say you've got pain
You say've got nothing left to believe in Nothing to hold on to
Nothing to trust

Nothing but chains

You've been scouring your conscience
Raking through your memories
Scouring your conscience
Raking through your memories
But that was the river

(Don't hold onto the things that keep you locked in the brain!
Release your Trauma)

This is the sea yeah! (At the sea you don't feel, you just are! Feeling basically is the effect. Being is the cause)

Now I can see you wavering
As you try to decide
You've got a war in your head

And it's tearing you up inside

You're trying to make sense
Of something that you just don't see
Trying to make sense now
And you know you once held the key
But that was the river
And this is the sea!

(Go out of your mind is the key to that and into the heart. The mind just trying to make sense but the heart already knows)
(You are the key! Remember that.)

Now I hear there's a train
It's coming on down the line
It's yours if you hurry
You've got still enough time
And you don't need no ticket
And you don't pay no fee
No you don't need no ticket
You don't pay no fee

(The only thing that is needed is you making the decision to take that train!)

Because that was the river
And this is the sea!

Behold the sea!

(You never needed to pay anything, because guess what. That is the external level of things. Go internal and find that you have everything you need there.
Remember the river they could fiddle with, not with the ocean!
The brain is no leader, it is merely a follower. The real leader is and was your heart. Embrace it!)

Now I remember reading in the chat once a meme which had a quote from "Rumi" if I recall correctly which went like this:
"You are not a drop in the ocean, you are the entire ocean in a drop!" Perhaps that adds a better understanding to it.
So you just need to remember who you are!

Let us look at the external and internal level of things again a little closer.

Remember that every feeling you feel inside and hold onto is within you. So if you hold on to anger it is inside of you and drains you like a battery. Basically you feed other persons and entities with it. We all feel anger and frustration from time to time and that is natural. The key aspect is, are we holding on to it or are we observing it and don't feed it our energy? We can just let it flow through us and release it, we don't have to hold onto and become it.
The thing about forgiveness is not that you forget and accept what has been done to you; it is not even about forgiving others on an external level. It means only, that by expressing forgiveness internally you allow the for-giving to take place and to release it from within you. It is part of the healing process. Don't mistake it as an external healing process, though others will most definitely benefit from you doing the work.
Feeling is the external, whereas being is the internal level.
The internal flows, whereas the external experiences and feels.
Once you begin to look at the external world as the extension of your internal you will begin to grasp that they are one and the same.
The internal only is, thus creating the external for you to feel and experience it in order to be able to grow and learn.
You will recognize your inner voice by feeling what resonates with you. So everything you see, read or hear that resonates with you is your internal voice giving you pointers of what to address or to look into.

Do not dismiss it and put it aside!

Remember everything else is a distraction, which puts you off track.

So start noticing your internal voice, in external experiences and let it guide you.

If you then overview and observe the experiences you will notice the lessons. Don't forget to integrate what you have learned or else you are doomed to repeat the lesson, which as Thomas explained will come to you in various ways and forms.

Remember you can only give your hand. The other one has to decide if they take it to get up from the ground and stand on their own feet, or if they take it as a lift even further up on the mountain. Some might only take it to say goodbye and then let go of it, while others won't take it at all.

But don't look back, for we aren't going that way!

Part 2:

Crop circles:

Before I go further into it let me explain some more basics of the number 9. It is important that it is an uneven number, because only uneven numbers have only one centre point. For the number 9 that is the number 5.

The only divider of 9 that gives you a natural number is 3. And the result is 3! The number 9 is connected to the number 3 and 6. 3 times 6 equal 18!

$$9/3 = 3$$

$$3 \times 6 = 18$$

Also they count in 2 weeks and maybe we should count in 3 weeks?

But remember a week has 8 days.

$$3 \times 8 = 24$$

$$24 \times 15 = 360 \text{ days (Calendar Kevin referred to)}$$

Also I want to break down Kevin's Presentation into two major concepts that were presented by him. For that is what I have learned of them, beside the wealth of Information given.

The first one is the concept of "thinking big". That is basically the overview perspective. The bigger you think, the bigger of a picture emerges and the greater your overview becomes.

The second one is that your perception heavily depends on your viewing angle.

The two are deeply connected with each other.

If you are at the centre within your heart (the observer), you see that all gates are facing the centre. If you look at it from the outside, it may seem that the gates are closed.

So in my understanding basically what the dark did was to "cloak" the gates or change our perception by shifting our point of view to the external level. For they can only block/seal the external gates but never the internal one!

The 2023 Crop Circles:

As of my information there have been 6 crop circles this year on the following dates:

1 st	28 th May
2 nd	4 th June	(7days later)
3 rd	7 th June	(3days later)
4 th	11 th June	(4days later)
5 th	18 th June	(7days later)
6 th	26 th June	(8days later)

I will just add that on the 13-06-2023 Thomas did the show "angels, demons, codes and lines", although I haven't figured the connection as of yet.

I will have to say that on the first look they didn't make much sense to me and I had to let the geometries work through me to get a better understanding.

Now let us look at them in the order of their appearance. I attached the pictures with my notes on top to help you follow the thought process.

1st – 28th of May:

The first one has 6 “leafs” with a circle in the middle and a circle on the outer ring. There is an additional outer ring as on the flower of life.

It took me some time to realize, as I tried to look for a geometry that looks similar that I am looking at a wheel!

So it is not connected with the flower of life but it actually is a wheel and the “leafs” are the “spokes” of the wheel.

I asked the question of the wheel on my last pondering. Let me decipher this wheel for you.

6+1 let me back to the Chakras I pointed out on the double Tetrahedron.

So this crop circle is showing us the “Chakra wheel”. (Chakra means also “wheel”)

The six spokes represent the outer Chakras, whereas the heart Chakra is in the centre. For some it might be easier to understand that you activate the “wheel” at the centre to make it “spin” again.

2nd 4th June

This one is way more complex and I haven't figured it out completely yet but I will share what I have found so far.

It looks to me as 2 keys on the outside. Both keys have 3 “feeler” if that is the correct term for it.

The bottom key has 2 additional circles and the top key has a little “tail” with an empty centre.

From the bottom key there is a connected circle which has 4 markers. My first thought was that they create an egg timer shape and the empty centre could mean that time has run out. But I resonate more with my second thought which was that it could also symbolize the poles or “gates” of a planet. The Torus field also has two outside gates remember. One at the “true” north and one at the “true” south.

From the top key there is a connected circle which represents a duality shape. One half is empty the other is full.

For what the 2 keys are needed I am not sure. But as they are connected, you need to fulfil both conditions.

The one condition is maybe to realign the poles of Midgard earth with their “true” north and “true” south origin and the other one maybe to restore the balance.

3rd 7th June

This one looks like a flower with 18+18 leafs. That could represent 2 cycles as of my latest pondering if you leave out the 0's (9+9 | 9+9).

In total there are 36 leafs.

$3+6 = 9$

Two cycles represent a loop but it looks more like an organic sequence.

Now for some reason I went back to the “flower of life” and found what I was looking for.

The flower of life is made of 19 full Circles, as well as 36 partial circular arcs!

Oh my!

Now this blew my mind even more. You can also read the circles within the flower of life as follows.

1+6+12 = 19!

Just on a side note if you count the outer circle you end up with 20 circles and if you draw the additional circle you end up with 21 circles. The second outer circle represents in my opinion that you can scale the geometry like a fractal up and downwards infinitely!

I had a map of the earth Chakras on my computer and dared to look at it again. There are 7 Chakras and thirteen gates.

Or is it written like this.

1+6 Earth Chakras = 7 Chakras

1+12 Gates = 13 Gates.

$1+6+12 = 19!$

Or is it $7 + 13 = \mathbf{20}$

With a possibility of a hidden one, which could be the “hub” the solid center of the Wheel?

The 21st!

Also note that $3 \times 6 = 18$

But remember the 3 and 6 needs to be counted twice to reach a 9.

$18 \times 2 = 36$

Sidenote:

Also if you always count the inner circle you get two 19's which are one or two short of a full sequence, which I referenced on my last pondering.

4th 11th June

For some reason I resonated with this one the most, maybe because it is also connected to my last pondering.

I also draw this one to get a better understanding of the geometry. First of the big connected square and circle is the mentioned geometry of “circling the square” or “squaring the circle”. So the circle and the square have the same surface area! This is very important. Anyone that thinks crop circles are made with just bare hands has to admit that this kind of accuracy in a cornfield is really impressive. Maybe not as impressive as the tale that the pyramids were build with bare hands and some basic tools but still very impressive.

The connection with my last pondering is with the dual pair of the platonic solids with the Octahedron and the Hexahedron. I described the Hexahedron as the foundation, which represents the primary matter and the wave.

Now the first thought I had was related to a clock. Anyone that remembers old clocks remembers the old watch hands that had a ring almost at the end with a pointer on top. This got me thinking. We have 3 time units on a clock.

1. Hours
2. Minutes
3. Seconds

In the middle there are 3 circles which are broken into 4 equal quarters. The same line pattern is mirrored in that sequence so you have 2 parts of the same circle pattern which are separated.

My first thought was that this represents the fall of the time matrix. This is also represented because you have two times 3 end points on each quarter which gives you 24 end points.

There are 24 hours within a day.

As I looked closer I realized that there is something more to it. One pattern is in harmony with the outer circle, the other is not. You can tell that by the equal distance between the circles.

This one is held in a kind of egg timer shape but it looks more like an orbit circle. I looked up one orbit I could find which matches that pattern just for the visualization of the idea.

So this could relate to a shift in orbital constellations as well.

Three circles are also a reference to 3 connections on the earth chakra map wave. I will come back to that later.

There are 8 circles on the outside. A big and a small one. So you can read it as 4+4.

8 is also a reference to the Hexahedron which has 8 corner points.

5th 18th June (7days later)

This one looks like the organic version of the Triquetra. The Triquetra looks like a mobius loop where 3 worlds are tied together in a knot. They are bound by an additional Circle. Here the circle is organically on the outside and not inside the structure.

We have the triality here with 3 leafs in the middle. There are 3x3 wing-like leafs on the areas between the inner leafs. That gives you 9 wing-like leafs.

That could mean that the 3 worlds Thomas mentioned are cut off each other and that they all move on organically on their own.

6th 26th June

This one is quite hard for me to grasp. I will explain the geometry first.

There are 12 smaller circles and 12 bigger circles that are connected via a line with a middle circle. This structure is within a big circle. But it is also incorporated within a bigger circle that surrounds it and leaves a moon like empty shape.

There are 5 outwards pointing triangles which are located where the 2 outer circles meet. Interesting enough the triangles point outwards in connection with my last ponderings.

Now let us go to the Chakra map so you understand the connection I made with this one.

Chakra map:

There are 13 Gates and 7 Chakras on the map. 4 Gates are considered as a spinning wheel.

There is a wave which connects 3 times, whereas the 3rd connection point is not visible.

The 6th Chakra doesn't have a fixed location, thus Gate 6 moved one further and is on Chakra 7.

Now let me tell you what I think. The spinning wheel resonated in me and luckily English is not my mother tongue for I got a toothed wheel in my mind as a picture. So the wheels are connected into each other.

Don't get confused with the location of the spinning wheels I think there are not valid at all.

What I think is that there are 4 toothed wheels going like this.

1. Chakra wheel
2. Gates Wheel
3. The 13th gate is a toothed wheel in of itself because it only works when all 12 gates are "healthy"
4. That is the "Hub" the solid centre of the wheel. That is connected to all the prior mentioned wheels.
5. There is a possibility of a 5th toothed wheel that could be connected to the Star gates, thus is connected to the outside realm.

There is your connection to the last crop circle. The toothed wheels are all connected. Also the connection to the flower of life is that it is written like this. $1+6+12$. So the Chakra wheel and Gate wheel share the same pivot point so to speak.

Part 3:

I found a picture of the Ursa Minor and Major constellation where they are made of 19 and 7 stars. I thought this is very interesting. But here is the kicker. I thought is there a missing star in all of this?

$19+7$ equal 26. With one additional one that would be 27.

Also a different angle is that there are 7 Chakras and 13 Gates, which equal 20.

$7+13 = 20$

An additional one would give you 21.

I think about it as the pivot point of it all the "Hub" or the solid centre of the wheel.

There is a line in the Vedas Thomas read out in FHSTOS part 1 which says.

"They hid in the palace of the bear". (Hiding would imply that you cannot see it up on the horizon)

He also mentioned palaces are constellations. Interesting to me is that the "palace of the bear" is singular terminology.

Now I want to reveal a thought because of recent chat activity.

What if the "palace of the bear" is hidden at the "Hub" or the solid centre of the wheel to protect the most important gate of all? Kind of like the heart gate of this universe. Wouldn't that mean that we have been guarding it all the time?

Thomas referred to the Urs as the teachers. Why are they called the teachers and wouldn't that implicate that they know something the others don't? What if part of the secrets they hold is a, the key to the palace of the bear and b, the knowledge about the "hidden" gate.

So my question is are the Urs the keepers, protector and guardians of the "last" gate?

Maybe they were just allowing people in to provide sanctuary and that was not a regular thing to do.

And why could the dark never break into the palace? Is it located too close to the light so to speak?

Thomas asked if the Urs have an intelligence agency. My answer to that is, that you only need an "intelligence agency" if you lack intelligence. Do you really think the Urs lack intelligence and thus are in need for an agency?

We don't need agents, for we are all leaders.

We don't have a hierarchy, for we are all equal.

We don't need to control everyone, for we are in total control of ourselves.

We don't need external technology, for we use our inner Technology.

We don't need external power, for we are the power, thus holding it within us.

Part 4:

What awakening of the soul means:

When our physical body sleeps it is quite obvious but what does it mean that our "soul" sleeps?

I think the relation to the sleeping pods is not valid for I don't think that the soul can be put into "sleep" mode. It can be captured that is for sure but fall asleep for the soul does mean something different in my opinion.

The awakening of the soul in my understanding means the "reconnection" with your soul. It can also be seen as a reconnection with your "higher self".

I touched on the reconnection with the multidimensional part in you on my "first pondering".

Remember also that although they "cut" the connection to the higher dimensions it was only "perceived" as if it has been blocked. I say it again; we are not bound to this time matrix and can take the easy way of reconnecting outside of time.

What it also means to me is growing up spiritually, or in other words to become spiritually mature.

Someone posted a meme a while back that went like this. "It is harder to wake up, if you think that you are awake".

It resonated very strongly with me back then.

In essence that means that you are only dreaming and think that you are awake. Don't fall into that trap.

What woke means:

Woke is the simple past. You can only change or effect something in the present, the "now". If you carry the past with you, then you carry it into the now. If you want to release something from the past you have to go to the moment in the now, to be able to release it. You only shift the now is the key aspect. Past and future are only concepts brought forth to us, so we understand what continuation means. Everything that happens though happens in the now.

If you time travel you only shift the now to a different moment in "Time".

Letter to the dark:

If the rumour is true that this universe was once only light then I guess you had to come here to restore the balance again and it could be seen as a necessary step.
I do not defy darkness and I don't look at you as my enemy, because I know I carry you inside me as well.
I do not strive for an only light "Universe" but one where balance is restored.
Therefore I will remind you of your purpose again.
You are not here to dictate our lives and to stifle our growth.
You are here to teach us and help us grow and develop.
You have no servants, only the ones that freely choose to do so.
You can not create anything that is why it is only logical that we created you. Therefore we will always win against you.
Remember that at the end of the "day" the light is not as afraid of the dark, as the dark is of the light.
We do not lose ourselves when we go into the dark; we find it by turning on our inner light.
You though cannot go into the light without becoming it. Therefore you avoid it at all cost.
We can be in both worlds; you can only be in yours.
You are always one step behind, because you have to follow our creation.
Only with the absence of light you can see the parts the light is made of. Remember that you are also light, but you absorb all frequencies and do not reflect them further. That is why you feed on the light and need it to survive.
You need us more than we need you, never forget that.
So this letter is not against the dark per se but for the ones that turned dark.
We have a lot of entities in this universe, which turned so dark, that they are not able to receive the light anymore.
That is why they will eventually fade away now.
There is a saying that smashing a mirror brings bad luck and I will explain to you why. It is not the external mirror it is your internal one.
It means that you turned so dark and fear to look at yourself so much that you do not dare to look into the internal mirror, for that would show you what you have become.
If you destroy that mirror though, you shatter the ability to gain awareness about the situation, which only by then you would be able to change. In essence it means by shattering your internal mirror, you shatter the essence of your self. So you die internally and look dead externally.
Even we became so detached from ourselves that we need time to heal in order to be able to receive the full spectrum of the light again.
The goal though is not only to receive it but to hold it in your frequency field and thus becoming it.
Behold the sea!

Show excerpt of When 2 worlds become 3 extended

*"We have had and experienced a number of these filtering events over the past two years, and is preparation for an unfolding event as such.
With the incoming G cloud and GNA which is best for organic life only, that collision will kick start a sequence of events and changes within you and around you.
What will unfold one can only speculate on, no one is given the full details as that doesn't allow for free will and also interactions with it.
No one knows the date either, no matter how many tell you that, via new age channelers and their bs scripts garnered from voice to head technology.
Once the transition happens the harvesting machine and their technology to support that system will end once and for all, and can only be brought back by ourselves.
We must learn the lessons of the past and build a better future for our species, many of which is contained within the guidelines of The Peoples Club.
How to be, how to act, think and act different, caring and sharing, cooperative not corporating, inclusive not exclusive, need not greed, helping each other and not playing the comparative competitive mind games, all as equals not in hierarchy, adult thinking not child like thinking, with egos in balance.
Only when the bulk of our people operate under that banner, will we then be able to venture to the new world and new worlds out in space.
Space is not the final frontier, it is and was our home."*

Be and hold the sea and remember you are the entire ocean in a drop.
Now ask yourself are you still following someone's distraction or are you leading your creation with like hearted people in harmony. Do you want to be a battery in a looshing program or do you want to be a generator, which generates the power of the new spiral wave that brings along the next evolutionary cycle?
