

THINK DIFFERENTLY

The Same is never extraordinary, it's never remarkable or memorable, will never be talked or written about. So why then is it so frequently sought after? What compels us to wander down this path of familiarity? The same path covered up with the footprints of millions who have already been there before you who have done it before, who have been deceived by it before. Following the footsteps of the majority it guarantees one thing that you will get what the majority has – you'll get their comfort, their reassurance, their sense of belonging, but that's half the deal. Because the path also comes with unanswered questions; it come with never knowing what is possible or could have been or your potential.

>

See being the same is like Ibuprofen it addresses the symptom not the root cause - it fulfills an immediate need. But like a dwindling flame you'll see more and more every day that it's not capable of keeping the room lit. The same means you didn't ask yourself What's Right, you ask the world around you and contrary to what most believe these answers are not congruent. You can't follow the crowd and follow your heart. You can't be what's popular and be what's True to yourself. You can't be the Same and be significant. If you want to achieve – 'Think Differently'

>

Stop waiting in line for things you don't want. They will not bring you fulfillment. They will not lift you up or set you apart or give you meaning. Conformity has a ceiling and your potential does not. This creates conflict, it breaths missed opportunity and wasted potential. If there is one thing I want you to take from thing, One thing - understand that the size of a crowd is not proportional to the value of the decision it's making. Millions and millions can miss the very opportunity that One person saw. The whole world can turn away from the answer that One person believed in. To mindlessly join the march is to forfeit that opportunity to Be that One person to bring something to the table, to change the world and redraw the line around humanity that box so many of us in.

>

The temporary comfort of belonging it's a false god, it brings you nothing but away from where you want to be, from where you can be. The goal is not to be them, it's to be yourself and in turn create a better world for them, for yourself, for your dreams, for what's possible. To get something different you have to do something Differently. Don't conform to what's there find what's not. Don't listen to what's said, write new words to be spoken. Don't follow yesterday's path, pave a new path for tomorrow. What's standing it already exist. Your treasure lies in the gaps and blank spaces between them.

>

The things that people walk right by – That's what you need. That's what the world needs even if they don't know it. Look, you may not be understood now but like anything of value, of true meaning, that time will come just at a cost the majority is not willing to pay. But if you are – your path will lead you past mediocrity, past conformity, past the average and towards the best thing this world has. You didn't see what Is you saw what Could be and you created it and there is nothing more powerful than that.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PQiy4Fke0n0> – 'Think Differently' – motivational talk.